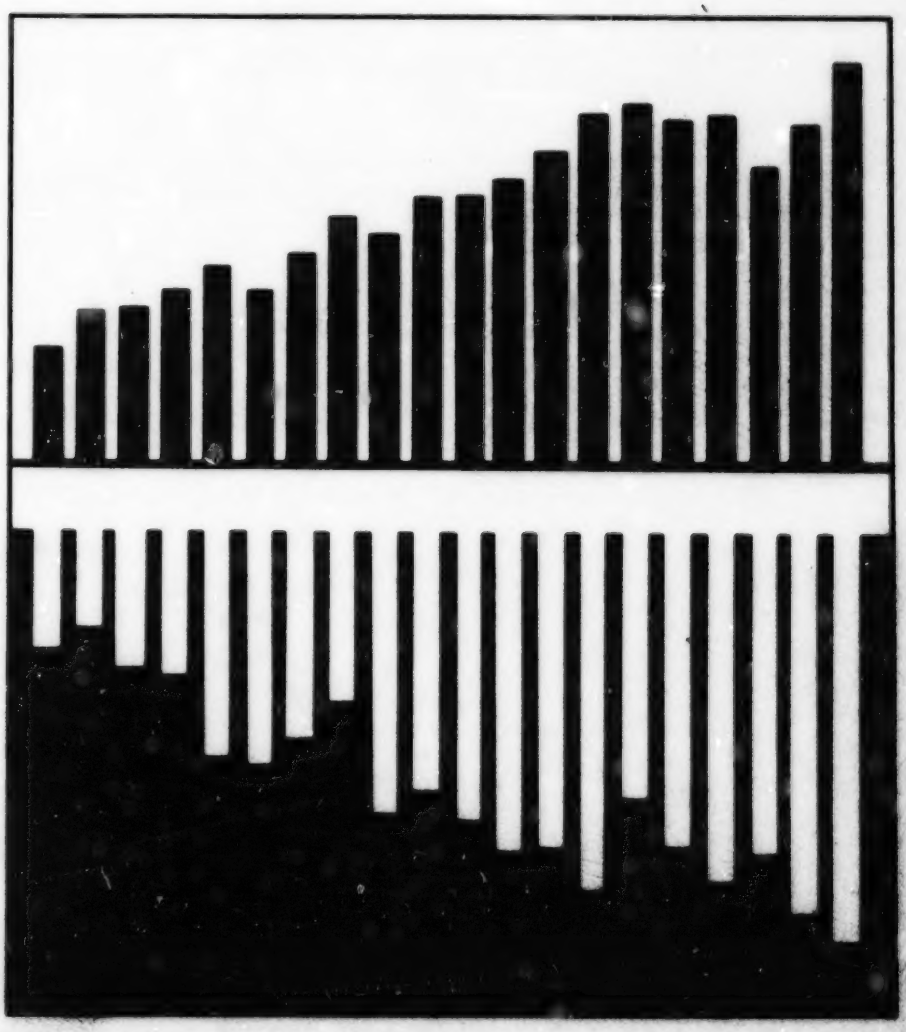
Experimental



Saskatchewan

The data presented in this publication are experimental in that they have been derived from administrative records and not by a survey of establishments. The data have been subjected to confidentiality checks in accordance with The Statistics Act, 1972, however, this in no way lessens the usefulness of the data presented here.

In comparing the aggregate Saskatchewan retail trade data produced by the Saskatchewan Bureau of Statistics (SBS) to data published by Statistics Canada, the Bureau of Statistics data were consistently higher, ranging from 1.3% in 1978 to 8.9% in 1981. Records used by the SBS to produce these data were coded in accordance with the Standard Industrial Classification (1970) system (Statistics Canada catalogue 12-501). However, it was not always possible to determine the exact nature of the business to be coded and, therefore, kind of business data are not strictly comparable with Statistics Canada's data. However, the SBS data are consistent from year to year.

These experimental data have not been subjected to rigorous analysis, however, because of the demand for small area, community specific retail trade data they are being made available to the user community for the purpose of generating discussion and feedback.
